

Casino – Workers' Compensation Training Video for Construction Field Personnel

Casino is a videotape produced by the National Erectors Association that portrays the economic and human cost that results from on-the-job injuries and fatalities, particularly as these factors relate to workers' compensation insurance costs. The video is intended to function as part of an overall safety training and awareness program for construction trades men and women.

Casino drives home the message that, by working safely, craftworkers reverse the growing work comp crisis, which ensures future availability of benefits. This is illustrated through the true story of Mrs. Mary Ann Gutkowski, a widow whose husband fell to his death on the job.
